Girl Murdered In Army Camp

Mystery Surrounds Crime In Reservation Near Newport News—Skull Crushed With Pipe.

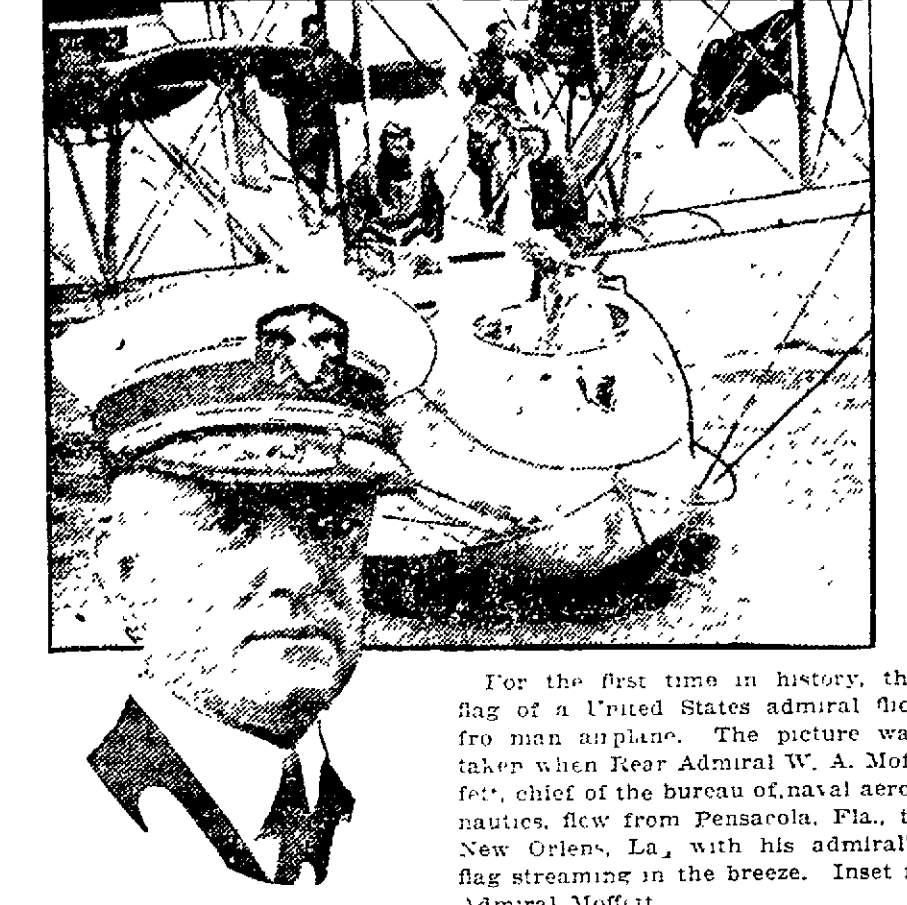

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., June 13.—Mystery shrouds the murder of Miss Rose Regina Brady at Camp Eustis Saturday night. Government and civil authorities have been unable thus far to unearth any clue either as to the motive or the identity of the slayer. Miss Brady's skull was crushed in with a heavy piece of iron pipe as she passed through a small clump of woods on the reservation. She was a slender, fair woman, and her death was a shocking event. The crime was reported to camp officials the reservation was closed to outsiders. The body was found near the home where she was employed. The criminal assault theory was abandoned after an examination by physicians. Miss Brady had neither money nor valuables with her at the time of the murder. Miss Brady left the home of her employer, Capt. Boyd Smith, about 7:30 p. m. Saturday. Her home was in the Brookline. She was reported to be a permanent resident of Camp Eustis. During the day she served as nurse to the Smith children. It is believed that the murderer saw Miss Brady leave the home of her employer and supposed she carried her week's wages with her. When she was alone in the woods on her way to her sister's home the murderer ran up behind her and killed her with the piece of pipe. "I asked her to let me take her home in my car," Capt. Smith told the officers. "but she said it was a pretty night and she preferred to walk. She had done it many times before, though I often told her she was taking a big risk."

Danville To See New Pitcher Here This Afternoon

The Danville baseball team returned home last night, to be here for the remainder of the week, after having lost two games to Winston-Salem. The strong High Point aggregation will be here today and tomorrow and Greensboro Friday and Saturday. It was announced by Manager Abbott this morning that Twombly, recently acquired from the American Association, will pitch this afternoon's game, while Herndon, for High Point is expected to send Eldridge or Frenick to the mound. Twombly has shown that he has the "stuff" and a close game is expected. The contest starts at 4:15, the usual hour. It was also announced this morning that transportation had been wired to First Base from Winston-Salem, and that he is expected to arrive by tomorrow, to again join the locals. A new third baseman from the Rocky Mount club of the Virginia League is also expected to report in a day or two. His name is Caldwell, and he is well recommended as a fielder and hitter. With Worth back on first, McMillan, now playing that station, will be shifted to the outfield and with a fast and hard-hitting third baseman, Danville should be very successful. All of the crippled and injured players, with the exception of Regan, have about recovered from their ailments, and Danville is expected to be ready with a flying start for the second half of the race when it begins.

EX-SERVICE MAN REGAINS HEALTH LOST IN FRANCE

Declares Tanlac Built Him Back to Finest Condition After He Had Given Up Hope of Recovering from Troubles That Began in Trenches.

"It was just three weeks after I started taking Tanlac that my trouble ended," said E. L. Cumble, 41 Brook Street, Lynchburg, Va., carpenter and former service man. "My health began to fail in France and even after I was discharged I continued to get worse. My whole system was affected, especially my stomach and nerves. I had awful indigestion and it looked like every bit I ate caused gas on my stomach and terrible pains in my chest and around my heart. I was so nervous I shook all over and slept so poorly that I got out of bed. I wasn't able to work regularly and was about ready to give up. I never saw the like of the way Tanlac put me back in fine shape. I eat three big meals a day now, work every day and call myself as good a man as I ever was. I can heartily recommend Tanlac to anybody."

Novelist's Wife Is Insulted By Process Server

He Breaks Into Mrs. Robert Chambers' Bedroom to Present Papers for Civil Suit, and Is Later Arrested.

NEW YORK, June 13.—When Mrs. Robert W. Chambers, wife of the novelist, was about to step from her bath on the third floor of the Chambers residence, No. 43 East 83d street, at noon yesterday, she was startled. She heard hurried, unfamiliar footsteps. Someone was running up the stairs fast.

"Who is it? What's the matter?" Mrs. Chambers exclaimed as she left the tub and moved through the bathroom door to her bedroom. There was no reply, but in a moment the door of the bedroom was flung open. A gliding man, a stranger to the nude mistress of the house, confronted her.

"Hah! Mrs. Chambers, I believe," he exclaimed. He thrust his hand into his pocket. Mrs. Chambers struck away, believing he meant to draw some weapon. The intruder pulled out a long paper. Mrs. Chambers stepped back toward the bed and clutched its topmost covering to draw about her.

A maid was shrieking down below. Mrs. Chambers feared that she faced a madman. Her visitor took a step toward her, raised his hand with the paper in it and flung it hard at the dazed woman.

Ignorant of what was his misdeed, Mrs. Chambers sought to escape it, but it struck her fair on the throat. She did not know if she had been wounded or not and still stood as the man hesitated for a moment.

"There you are, Madame," he said. Then he turned swiftly and ran down stairs, making his escape as a man servant ran out to intercept him, but in vain.

Mrs. Chambers dropped on the bed, half faint from her encounter. Then, curious, she gingerly leaned over and picked up the paper which had struck her.

It was a summons. She drew a long breath and indignation took the place of alarm and anxiety. Putting on a wrap she summoned the maid who had been screaming. The girl said the stranger had called and insisted on seeing Mrs. Chambers on important business. When he was told Mrs. Chambers could not be seen at that time by persons unknown to her household, he pushed the maid aside, the latter said, and ran up the stairs.

Investigation disclosed that the stranger was not the only thing that suddenly left the house. On a table near the door of the library, just from Mrs. Chambers' room, there was a pearl necklace, valued at $2,675.

Bandit Amuses Baby While Pals Rob Man

NEW YORK, June 13.—With her father and his clerk bound and gagged nearby, three-year-old Sarah Auster laughed merrily today as one bandit pulled her while three others rifled her daddy's jewelry store on First avenue. She gave up the game reluctantly when the quartet fled with several thousand dollars' worth of loot.

Abriel Auster, his clerk and his daughter were in the store when a well-dressed young lady entered. While the proprietor was showing him a watch three other customers entered. One of the robbers displayed a gun and the lawyer and his assistant got this order: "Get into the back room, quick!"

The little girl watched with interest while the bandits bound and gagged the pair. Then, twirling his watch, one robber said:

"You come and play with me, kiddie."

Weeks May Resign and New Get Post

WASHINGTON, June 13.—Prospects that Senator Harry S. New of Indiana, will be secretary of war when he leaves the Senate at the end of the present Congress are good just now, for there is talk that Secretary Weeks is planning to retire.

Mr. Weeks' friends say he wants to go back to private life and active business, but his retirement is by no means certain, for there is a movement on foot to nominate him for the presidency in 1924 if Mr. Harding does not stand for re-election. Other reports that Senator New will become postmaster general are considered decidedly premature, but there seems to be no doubt the senator will receive a governmental post of dignity, honor and importance when his term expires. Rumors that the agriculture portfolio was to be vacated by Secretary Wallace are based on his opposition to transferring the bureau of forestry to the interior department. This measure is far from completed, and Mr. Wallace must quit soon if it passes.

The certainty that Mr. New will be taken care of is based on his long political friendship with the President. They were cronies in the Senate and have continued such since Mr. Harding went to the White House.

Mountain Lion Howls 45 Minutes Off Broadway

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., June 13.—The howl of a mountain lion at the cradles of her cubs resounded nightly through the great open spaces of New Rochelle, just 45 minutes from Broadway.

At least, that's the report which comes to the police today and has sent officers in quest of big game. Daniel J. Glendon, Westerner, said he met a puma and four cubs this morning at 3:30. He said he numbered the puma among the wild animals he has known, and is sure of his vision.

A woman later reported that the howls of strange animals have kept her awake for the last three nights. No circus has been reported in the vicinity lately and the police are a bit skeptical.

MCCORMACK DEFERS RETURN

LONDON, June 13.—Owing to his nervous condition, following his recent serious illness in New York, John McCormack, the famous Irish tenor, has decided to postpone for at least six months his American tour, which was to have begun in New York October 8.

He intends to rest quietly in England and Ireland, and to proceed to southern France later to avoid the cold weather.

According to Mr. Wagner, there has been no threatened impairment of the voice of McCormack, but the strain of 10 long consecutive concert seasons and the effects of his last illness have resulted in such a nervous state that a good rest is imperative.

Guard's Status to Be Investigated

Cousins Knew Nothing of Federal Accusation, Neither Did Other City Officials—Tells of Circumstances of Employment.

The authorities will make an enquiry into the employment of Harry Snead as a chain gang guard while he is under bond for appearance in the United States court in September, which fact was brought to light yesterday when Willie Green, a negro prisoner, was shot and injured by Snead when he tried to escape from the gang.

Dr. R. W. Garnett reported today that the condition of the negro is improving, but there seems little fear of any complication. The shooting was investigated, probably on Monday, before Mayor Wooding leaves for the Confederate reunion. The condition of the wounded man will by that time have sufficiently improved, it is said.

It was learned today, fired one charge of No. 4 shot to halt the negro, without aiming at him, and when he did not check up, he let him have the other barrel.

Plans, Cousins, who has charge of the city chain gang, which comes under the supervision of the public works committee of the council, gave his version of the employment of Snead this morning. Cousins said that he knew nothing of Snead being under bond for the United States court and that he employed him on the recommendation of Police Officer W. B. Foster, who gave the man a good reputation. Cousins stated that Police Officer Coward did not inform him that Snead was a suspected fugitive and another man to him, and when Cousins told Coward that he had already appointed Snead, Coward said: "You are going to be sorry if you don't take the man I recommend."

Snead was appointed a month ago, to take the place of W. L. Bobo, who resigned and, according to Cousins, is one of the best guards he has ever had and well liked by the prisoners and others attached to the quarry works on the city farm.

According to Cousins, he sees no reason why he should make any change in his force, and he stated that it was his intention of keeping Snead because he has made McCormack's friends as having Police Sergeant Edwards as having found him that Snead is held under bond as a witness, rather than as a man charged with violating the nation prohibition law. Snead, Cousins says, did not have anything to do with the liquor, but that he happened to be riding with G. W. Abbott when he was captured by the federal officers. This, however, is in conflict with the statement of Federal Officer Leroy Chamberlain, who points to an entry in his book showing that Snead is charged jointly with Abbott with having 75 gallons of liquor in his possession on March 30th, when the automobile was intercepted on the Martinsville road.

City Engineer R. K. Linville, under whose supervision the quarry is operated, said he intended to make an enquiry into the affair. The engineer said he had no way of knowing that Snead was under bond and that when he was well recommended by Cousins he accepted his employment. Mr. Linville said that any decision reached would be guided by his own investigation rather than on hearsay.

Mayor Wooding, who swore in Snead, reiterated today that he had no knowledge that Snead was accused of the crime and that he had been frequently changed and the mayor, who administers the police oath, accepts the statements of those recommending the men as to their fitness. Chief of Police R. H. who states that the change came, has not come under his supervision, has no new nothing to say.

Enquiries today revealed that Snead is still on duty and he will remain there, unless some action is taken relative to his case. Cousins says that he has never let a man go away, and he expressed the belief that he should be allowed to remain where he is until caught to disposition has been made of the federal accusation brought against him.

Lupo "The Wolf" Back From Exile

Murderer and Counterfeiter Gets Past Ellis Island, Although Identified There

NEW YORK, June 13.—Ignazio Lupo, the well known "Wolf" counterfeiter and self-confessed murderer, is once more a resident of New York. Having gone back to Italy after serving eleven years of his thirty-year sentence in the federal prison in Atlanta, Lupo has returned and was held at Ellis Island. Three weeks ago he was admitted secretly after having been ordered deported when brought before a board of special inquiry. He is now in the Italian colony in Harlem.

"Orders from Washington" is the only answer that could be got from the officials at Ellis Island yesterday inquiring in Washington last night brought for officials of the Department of Labor professed ignorance of the case. They said the offices were closed when inquiry was made, and they had no means of looking the matter up in their files today.

Commissioner General Husband of the Immigration Board said he knew nothing of the case. He added it was barely possible that Lupo might have been admitted under another name. He also said the bureau might not have all the facts.

When the case was being investigated at Ellis Island, Peter Rubano, a Secret Service operative, who helped send Lupo to Atlanta, appeared as a witness.

He told the board of inquiry the fact that when on trial for counterfeiting he had admitted he had killed a man in Italy and had fled to this country. Assistant Secretary of Labor Hening said he did not recall the case, but that if anything had been shown against Lupo he would not have been allowed to enter. He thought the names had been confused, because, he said, there are many Italians named Lupo.

Lupo was convicted as the ring-leader of a gang of counterfeiters who had their plant near Poughkeepsie. Feb. 20, 1910, Judge J. R. Seneca sentenced him to thirty years in Atlanta and fined him $10,000.

Lupo returned to this country May 13 on an Italian ship. He was being held at Ellis Island when Secret Service men "spotted" him. He was ordered deported May 17.

But now Lupo is taking his home in Harlem.

England Cuts Her Air Force To Minimum

LONDON, June 17.—(United Press.)—Great Britain's air fleet, a few months after the war, is now reduced to the same place in the air world as the air fleets of the lesser powers.

Where Great Britain formerly led the world in bombing machines, fighting two-seaters, fighting scouts and artillery observation planes she now seems content to rest on her former laurels on the grounds of economy.

Air officers of the British flying forces are anxious, they are of the opinion voiced openly by the general of the British Air Force, that the country needs air protection as much as she formerly needed sea protection.

"England is no longer an island," a high air official told the United Press. "The continent is but a half hour's flight from British shores."

Politicians, however, continue to make drastic economy cuts in the British flying personnel of Britain's air navy.

The present status in machines maintained is rapidly coming down to a similarity with the pre-war schedule, when the types and numbers flown were the lowest category.

Before the armistice, Great Britain had in England alone nearly five hundred flying stations. Today she has fifty depots, aircraft parks and storage parks which grow up like mushrooms and flourished during the war have vanished in its aftermath.

"Production is no longer necessary," the economists cry and so day by day the Britisher who had a one during the war to look on his air force as a second navy, sees it diminishing to nothingness.

Not only are machines not being built, but the famous types which Britain perfected in the war and which the United States built in numbers are scrapped. The famous "Cameo" two-seater, the "Liberator" scout with its terrific climb on its planes, and its Chatterbox Lewis guns, are being scrapped.

Not only are machines not being built, but the famous types which Britain perfected in the war and which the United States built in numbers are scrapped. The famous "Cameo" two-seater, the "Liberator" scout with its terrific climb on its planes, and its Chatterbox Lewis guns, are being scrapped.

These machines have gone from the production list. In their place a few large types are still being built, but the economy cuts are so drastic that they are almost negligible.

Before the armistice the Air Force list was the size of a fully grown family Bible. Today it is about as big as a forty page railroad time table.

The Air estimates this year provided for a cut of over five million pounds in production alone. Last year it was three. Today nothing is being spent save on experimental work.

Before the armistice the Air Force numbered nearly one million officers and men. Today its total ranks are under a hundred thousand.

Great Britain and her airmen are asking what it all means.

"Where are we going?" is the air slogan.

Money Is Wasted In Artless Propaganda

(By The Associated Press.)

MILWAUKEE, June 13.—(United Press.)—Co-ordination of manufacturers and dealers in advertising was recommended at the Convention of Associated Advertising Clubs of the World here today by C. C. Harn, advertising manager for the National Lead Company. "The manufacturer knows his product as no one else," said Mr. Harn; "he should be able to present its good points in the most convincing manner. The dealer knows the other hand, he has the local contract and the price. He can repeat the manufacturer's message with a local emphasis which is very telling."

Mr. Harn declared that in the majority of cases money often spent in expensive literature "would be much more effectively used in buying more newspapers and magazine space and in co-ordinating the work of the distributor with the newspaper and magazine advertising." He concluded that in the case of the concern which has a rather complicated or unfamiliar product—the "need for intensive education probably justifies intensive and extensive follow-up."

"There is only one thing in advertising practice," said Mr. Harn, "as bad as neglect to co-ordinate the various advertising forces which one is using and that is to leave entirely unused some form of advertising or sales effort which would be effective if we are doing much more effectively."

"There was some excuse in the early days for the advertiser to be ignorant as to whether he was buying the advertising force which his plans called for and which he aimed to buy. Since the advent of the Audit Bureau of Circulations a few years ago, there has been no such excuse, at least insofar as the buying of newspaper and other periodical advertising is concerned. And here I wish to pay a tribute to those publishers of newspapers, magazines, farm papers, business papers and other periodicals who at the request of advertisers set aside their individual ideas and preferences on many points and joined with the advertisers and agents to solve an intolerable and ridiculous situation. Advertisers and agents owe it to these publishers to select those publishers as against those who refuse to co-operate. You owe it to yourselves, first, as you would owe it to your customers to buy a metal tested by an independent laboratory as against one which is covered by the manufacturer's own test. But you owe it more acutely because you yourselves asked the favor and you cannot in honor prefer those who do not comply with your own request."

Germany Has Real "Hotdogs"

BERLIN, June 13.—(United Press.)—"Hot Dogs" is right.

Officials report that 3,500 real hot dogs were transformed into Germany's "hot dog" supply last year. That only counts the ones that passed the slaughter houses, not those that were home-butchered.

The reports say that 140,000 horses were the same way into "hot dogs" against only about 6,000 a year before the war. In pre-war days, there is no official record of any dogs reaching the sausage grill.

German writers say that this consumption of horse and dog meat in Germany shows that Germany's prosperity cannot be judged by the food served in the hotels, but that Germany is so poor that the poor cannot get great sausage dogs and horse meat.

According to an announcement made today, he will accept the post.

Can Lusitania Be Salvaged?

(By The Associated Press.)

LONDON, June 14.—The statement cabled from New York that an American salvage company was going to try to raise the Lusitania has aroused keen interest here. But most of those who speak with authority about lifting ships from the bottom of the sea are skeptical as to the Lusitania ever being floated.

Sir Frederick Young is strongly of the opinion that it will never be done. He had charge of the Admiralty Salvage section during the war, and brought into port nearly 500 ships that had become war casualties. Many of them had been torpedoed and a considerable number had been sunk. No one knows more about raising vessels.

To an interviewer Sir Frederick has said it is very improbable, though not absolutely impossible, that the Lusitania could be raised. The cost would be out of all proportions to her value. After lying seven years at the bottom of the sea it would cost as much to reinstall her as to build a new vessel.

To build a floating chamber nine hundred feet long and one hundred feet wide and to attempt to raise the wreck by means of steel cables, would be a task of enormous proportions. It is impossible for divers to work at a depth of 250 feet, and they would have to go that far under water to get at the Lusitania. The greatest depth at which divers now work successfully is 180 feet.

"From the mouth of the oldest seaman well in Europe water has flowed uninterruptedly for more than 750 years."

Labor Endorses W. G. Lee's Policy

(By The Associated Press.)

CLEVELAND, O., June 14.—The re-election of W. G. Lee as president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen at the convention of that organization in Toronto, Ont., recently taken to mean endorsement of his conservative policies of the last three years. Mr. Lee was re-elected on the first ballot over Val Fitzpatrick and A. F. Whitney, vice-presidents. In 1920 it was Mr. Lee who broke the unauthorized strike of switchmen, most of whom were members of his organization. Shortly afterward he counseled the acceptance of a moderate wage increase which was lower than the brotherhood had demanded. Last fall, almost single handed, Mr. Lee opposed the movement to strike against the reduction in pay awarded the roads last July.

Mr. Lee has taken prominent part in all joint wage movements of the railway brotherhoods for twenty years including the one culminating in the Adamson law of 1916.

He joined the brotherhood in 1899, served local committees in the west and then on a system committee of the Union Pacific, became vice-president in 1904 and was first elected president in 1909.

Where Death Rode in New York City's Gale

The number killed in the storm that hit New York City June 10 is placed at 50. Uprooted trees, loosened roofs and capsize boats added to the toll. And seven died and a score were injured when this Ferris wheel at Coney Island collapsed.

SAN FRANCISCO GETTING READY FOR SHRINERS

SAN FRANCISCO, June 13.—San Francisco is turning itself into a tented oasis for the delegates and visitors to the Golden Jubilee of the Ancient Arabic Order, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, June 13 to 16. For the convention period the San Francisco bay district might justly be termed the Caliphate of California, for it will be made to resemble a bit of the Old World Islam as closely as man's ingenuity will permit.

The ordained procedure of the real Islam to spread rugs for the caliphs and the lesser nobles on staff occasions will be reversed somewhat in the transplanted Islam. The rugs, or their replicas, will hang overhead on the streets, taking the place of the usual bunting or festoons.

Market Street, the main thoroughfare, is being turned into a lane closely akin to the picturesque arteries that lead to the old world mosques. The great Ferry Building, San Francisco's "front door," will be recognizable only as a Bedouin tent and the blazing electrolights along the main thoroughfares will be softened with transparencies in which are blended the red, green and gold of the new Near East.

Traversing the "hot sands" that lie between the bay and Civic Center the pilgrim will come upon the place of the kneeling camels, and right beyond, the minarets, pavilions and obelisks of an Arabian village. In the background will be seen the new City Hall, transformed into an awe-inspiring throne place, its great dome glowing at night with red and amber lights and by day with a riot of pennons, gorgeously hued, snapping in the breeze.

Wednesday, the second day of the jubilee, the United States army will put on an aviation program with confetti and American Beauty roses as the bombing ammunition. On the same day the 130 mile Golden Jubilee national championship automobile race for purses aggregating $25,000 will be run on the San Francisco speedway at San Carlos, south of here. The following days the air maneuvers will be continued and other events will be held and sea shazza battles.

Regattas, excursions and visits to the great battleships and the lesser craft of the Pacific fleet will be other events.

The outstanding events from a purely spectacular point of view will be the parades, three of which have been arranged for.

Hotel accommodations are said to be plentiful, but there is one temple that will take no chances. That is Medina of Chicago, which has arranged to use its five special trains for hotel purposes. Telephone connection will be "hooked up" with each pullman.

DANVILLE WILL HAVE S. S. LEAGUE

A very encouraging meeting of the managers and representatives from seven different Sunday schools was held last night at the Y. M. C. A., at which the rules and regulations of the league were discussed and ways and means for the league to operate were taken up. All were enthusiastic as to their chances of winning the pennant and for a good summer sport.

Teams from the following schools have entered: First Baptist Mt. Vernon, Second St. Clair, Moffett Memorial Christian and Presbyterian. The more teams is desired and any Sunday School desiring to enter a team will be given until Saturday night to line up.

Charlotte won the team cup, with a 299, Asheville being second with 348 and Greensboro third with 349. Charlotte also won the best team ball score with 87. RATS TWO FEET LONG

LONDON, June 13.—A Nottingham municipal medical officer has this to say about rats in this city: "Five hundred thousand rats, some two feet long and weighing ten pounds, inhabit the prehistoric subterranean passage of the city. They have killed and devoured hundreds of persons and wild cats and mice do not dare invade their haunts. An undomesticated female cat along is superior to a big rat."

The city tried poisoning them, but the rats quickly discovered the food was tampered with and they refused to eat it.

A phylaxation by gas has been suggested to rid Nottingham of the horde of rodents.

SHIPPING BOARD ATTACKED FOR SELLING BOOZE

WASHINGTON, June 13.—Attack on the shipping board for permitting the sale of liquor on American ships was made in the House today by Representative Gailivan, Democrat, Massachusetts.

Holding what he said was a wine list from the steamship President Pierce, paid for, he added, by federal appropriation, Mr. Gailivan declared that under the Volstead law "we can't get drunk on land, but we can at sea."

There was a roar from members as the Massachusetts representative, read from the list to show that American rye whiskey could be had aboard ship at twenty cents a drink and Jamaica rum—think of it—for bits.

THREE BODIES FOUND

NEW YORK, June 13.—Three more victims were added to the death toll resulting from the storm which crossed New York Sunday afternoon with the fury of a hurricane. Two more bodies were tossed from the water and another victim died from injuries suffered in the collapse of the ferry at Coney Island. They think that the total death list will reach 75.

SHIP REIGNITED BURNED

DETROIT, June 13.—A small ship, the "M. J. B.," was rekindled after being burned by a fire on the Detroit River. The ship was owned by the Detroit Shipbuilding Co. and was used for the transportation of goods. The fire was discovered by a fireman who was removing a pile of lumber from the ship. The fire spread rapidly and the ship was completely destroyed. The cause of the fire is still under investigation.

Baptists Tackle Liquor Problem

(By The Associated Press.)
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 14.—John Barrett Montgomery, president of the Northern Baptist Convention today told the 4,000 delegates assembled for the opening of the fifteenth annual convention of the denomination, that they faced "the most serious condition, and the most important questions that have ever confronted the Northern Baptist Convention."
"Our children's children will look back to this hour and judge us by that we do now," declared Mrs. Montgomery.

Among the great issues which the delegates to the Northern Baptist Convention must consider, she said, were the two great civic questions of international peace and the enforcement of the Eighteenth amendment, the denominational problem of the new World Movement, and the much argued adoption of a creedal statement, and the new religious opportunities afforded by "an uprising tide of evangelism" in this country, and the fact that 100,000,000 in Europe have religious liberty for the first time, as a result of the war.

"We meet as Baptists," Mrs. Montgomery said. "We have a great history to be not sufficiently conscious of the notable contributions we have made to the cause of individual liberty, civil and religious. There was dedicated in Washington, recently, a memorial to Roger Williams. The President of the United States turned the first spade full of earth for it, and Charles Evans Hughes, delivered a great oration. We Baptists are the recognized leader of the Protestant world. Let us not betray these principles today."

Concerning the discussion about necessity of issuing Baptist statement of creed, which is advocated by a part of the denomination, and violently opposed by others, Mrs. Montgomery declared that the thing to emphasize was that any such statement must be voluntary, and its adoption must be left to each local church.

She urged the completion of the New World Movement campaign of the Baptists, declaring that both Europe and America, as well as the various foreign fields of the denomination, today offer opportunities for evangelism never equaled before.

"Be must either put up or shut up," as the soldier boys expressed it," she declared. "We cannot continue to sing 'The Light of the World Is Jesus' and contribute only our loose change to His work. We must square our gifts with our claims."

Mrs. Montgomery said that the per capita gifts of the denomination had been raised from less than two dollars per annum to more than ten dollars in a short time, but declared that this standard was a low one, and must be raised.

Criticism of the New World Movement, the General Board of Promotion, and the raising of finances had greatly retarded the work, Mrs. Montgomery said.

Our Christian democracy must learn the lesson that the political democracy of the United States has learned—to acquiesce in the will of the majority," she declared.

The supreme political duty of the church, she said, lies in sustaining the Volstead act.

"We must override party lines and break political ties, if need be, in the defense of a sober nation," she declared.

OVERRIDES GOVERNOR'S VETO

BOSTON, June 13.—For the first time in many years the House of Representatives unanimously rode a veto of the governor today.

The legislature had voted to pay the widow of Representative Walter S. Hale, of Rockport, the balance of salary to which he would have been entitled had he lived to complete his term. The governor vetoed the bill, solve on the ground that it was unconstitutional, basing his action on the opinion of Attorney General Allen.

HELD FOR GRAND JURY

INDIA WILL SEND DELEGATES TO THE W. C. T. U. MEETING

EVANSTON, Ill., June 13.—India has sent credentials for five delegates to the world's W. C. T. U. convention to be held at Philadelphia November 11-16, according to advices from the union's national headquarters here.

Delegates are expected, the advices add, from the far east, the near east, South America, Australia, Africa, Canada, and the insular possessions of the United States.

The Baroness de Laveleye, president of the Belgian W. C. T. U., is planning to attend, according to the reports from Evanston. Representation of the British Women's Temperance Association, the W. C. T. U. of Canada, and that of Scotland is announced. A Finnish author, Miss Marie Sorenth, is scheduled to bring greetings from Finland and the world's W. C. T. U. organizer for South America, Miss Hardynia K. Norval, is to tell of work in that continent. In addition to the five delegates from India, Miss Mary Campbell, world's W. C. T. U. organizer there, and Mrs. F. K. Singler, formerly national president of the Burma W. C. T. U., are expected to attend. The W. C. T. U. of Egypt and that of Australia are also said to have announced their choice of delegates.

Immediately following the convention, delegates will attend the national W. C. T. U. convention at Atlantic City, and it is believed that thereafter a number of those from overseas will go to the convention of the World League Against Alcoholism in Toronto, Ont., November 24-29. Special arrangements are being made for visitors may take trips to Washington, Baltimore and New York before the meeting there.

BROOKHART SPENT $454

DES MOINES, Iowa, June 13.—Colonel Smith W. Brookhart, of Washington, Iowa, expended $453.98 in the campaign which won him the Republican Senatorial nomination, according to his official statement filed with Secretary of State W. C. Ramsey today. The statement, written by Colonel Brookhart in pen and ink, was unusual.

"I received meals and lodgings from farmers and laboring people many different times," Colonel Brookhart says, "and was driven through a country on automobile trips several different times without expense. Individuals, farm organizations, labor organizations and newspapers support me did so at their own expense. Halls were furnished without cost."

He received $157 for his campaign fund, only two persons contributing cash.

Bertion E. Sweet, of Waverly, spent $2,969.37, and Claude M. Stanley, of Corning, spent $115.68 in the same campaign. Clifford Thorne, Charles F. Pickett and Leslie E. Francis, the other candidates, have not filed reports.

OPTOMETRIST BROWNED

NEAR CHARLOTTE, N. C., June 13.—Eugene T. Brown, president of the Charlotte Optical Company, and a well known optometrist, was drowned in the lake of the Mallard Creek Rod and Gun Club, near here late last week, while bathing with a party from the city.

Members of the party said that Mr. Brown was playing in the water when suddenly he was seen to sink without a struggle, and never came to the surface, again until several minutes had passed. His body was about 65 years old and married.

NEW ATTACK ON VETERANS BUREAU; "PRUSSIAN" SYSTEM IS CHARGED

The proof that the public does care for America's disabled veterans is given in the case of Leonard Day and William Roethal, with but two legs between them. The other two legs they sacrificed for their country. They started to walk with crutches from Chicago to San Francisco, to attend the convention of the Disabled Veterans' Association. They got as far as Lyons, Ia., by walking only 20 miles. All sorts of vehicle gave them lifts along the way. Then they were overtaken by three bidders, auto touring to Frisco, and are riding the rest of the way.

By HARRY B. HUNT.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—A general overhaul of the United States Veterans Bureau, affecting perhaps even the position of director, now held by Charles R. Forbes, is likely within the next two months as the culmination of dissatisfaction among ex-service men.

For months the situation within the bureau has been the subject of serious concern to officers and men of ex-service organizations, including the American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Disabled American Veterans. These organizations to obtain the fullest measure of justice for suffering ex-service men have made little headway.

Instead of improving, the situation is declared to be growing worse. A certain amount of delay and confusion was expected to follow the decentralization of bureau work, followed by the establishment of 14 regional bureaus.

Both the organization and administration of these bureaus, however, is now being subjected to criticism by service organizations.

The charge is made that in many districts, instead of providing a shortcut and quick action, they only add to the red tape and delay.

The sub-offices, under the district offices, however, where a more intimate contact is maintained with the men, are declared to have been a distinct benefit.

The major part of the attack on the bureau will be directed against its medical organization and delays in providing better and more adequate hospitalization, particularly for tubercular and mental cases.

Begin Army Men Make Decisions.
The first part of this count will be based on the charge that the medical direction of the bureau is being Prussianized.

Among the service men familiar with conditions in the bureau, it is regarded as significant that two ex-servicemen of high ability, both of whom saw service with the American army and who are on the staff of the bureau, have been removed from their positions, leaving comparatively little of the work assigned to them.

Two regular army medical men, of identical rank in the bureau organization as incurred in service and so allowed.

tion, supplant them in handling virtually all important medical decisions, particularly as to percentage of disability which determines amount of compensation.

Because of the steady increase in tubercular and mental disabilities arising from war service, it looks as if the Veterans' Bureau will be called upon to meet claims amounting to more than $500,000,000 in the present fiscal year.

Present expenditures are well above $1,000,000 a day.

Arbitrary findings Reduce Expenses.
Arbitrary medical findings, it is declared, more than any other one thing, can be counted on to hold down the amount needed to meet payments.

Every case of "disability" or "no disability" traceable to service" means money saved for the administration, even though it may mean an injustice to an ex-service man.

Every disability rated as "10 per cent" instead of "40 per cent," or "40 per cent" instead of "permanent total," or "permanent total," means dollars saved to the government treasury.

There is no dodging the fact that many "disability" seek compensation. There are bound to be unscrupulous persons in an army of 4,000,000 men.

But how about men with acknowledged active tuberculosis, who are sent to the five districts within two years from the date of discharge?

The law governing disability allowances specifically provides that a case of tuberculous developing within two years after discharge shall be considered a case of "disability."

Yet within a month such cases have been disallowed by the regular army medical men of the bureau, and only finally passed when American Legion officials demanded that the law be followed.

Failure to maintain an essential personal and sympathetic touch, both with men undergoing hospitalization and with those being given vocational rehabilitation, is charged against the bureau. The case of a law class right in Washington, the home of the bureau, is cited as typical.

Here 450 trainees are taking a course in law.

There is just ONE man to supervise the training of these 450 men. Necessarily, the human equation is virtually nil.

Forbes 'Victim of Circumstances.'
Director Forbes is declared to be a victim of circumstances and surroundings.

His greatest fault, it is said even by the bureau's severest critics, is that he has permitted himself to be swept along on a tide of administration and army policy, rather than attempting to stem it.

Typical of this, it is declared, is his acquiescence in the location of hospital sites chosen entirely outside the bureau.

The law appropriating $17,000,000 for these new hospitals provided the selection of sites should be made by the director of the Veterans' Bureau.

Yet to date every selection has been sent over to the bureau from the White House.

While work on many of these hospitals has not yet been started, although the money has long been available, tubercular veterans are sleeping outdoors in Arizona and men suffering from mental disorders from war shock are crowded out to private asylums where they are herded, without treatment, with the pauper and criminal insane of the lowest types.

Golf Crowns Topple; Others Are Wobbling

NEW YORK, June 13.—Already the young 1922 golf season looks like a heartless champion buster.

Two big champions have already been succeeded and more look all tagged and billed for the fate.

Miss Joell Letch, former British woman champion, regarded as the greatest woman player in the world, not only lost her title to Miss Joyce Wethered but received the worst beating that a finalist ever received in that tournament.

Next on the list was Willie Hunter, British amateur champion, who dropped his title to E. W. Holderness.

The British open championship is next on the list and it isn't wishing the hammer to figure that Jack Hutchison, the American holder of the title, may be the next champion casualty.

Before calling Joell he Hutch, warned his followers not to expect too much of him and he announced that he felt he would not be able to retain the title. Joell knows a good deal about British golf and the conditions under which the tournament are staged over there and he is not rash enough to boast of a doubtful conquest.

Many golf experts figure that Jesse Guilford, American amateur champion, will retire after one year's reign and Jim Barnes will have no easy time coming out on top of the open pile again this year.

Americans did not figure very much in the British championship this year because the golf association refused to sponsor a big invasion and very few of the American stars were in a position to go it "on their own."

Miss Alexa Sterling, in winning the Metropolitan women's championship, showed she is back in the form which gave her preeminence over all the other American women stars for several years.

It would be no surprise this year to see her win back both the American and the Canadian titles.

Miss Letch had intended to invade Canada and the United States again this summer, but since she has lost her title she may cancel her engagements. Miss Wethered, the new champion, hasn't had time to make any plans but it is doubtful if she can make arrangements for an American trip on such short notice.

MARS is going to take a close look at Danville Sunday evening, June 18.

And by the same token, Danville citizens are going to take a close look at Mars—the closest since 1909.

By Sunday night Mars will be 8,000,000 miles nearer the earth than it was a month ago. Flying Mars as a speeder certainly stirs up the star-dust.

But you needn't fear Mrs. Will skid at some celestial corner and knock a tender of the earth. For Mars will come within only 12,350,000 miles of the planet to which we hold title, before he curves away again.

If Mars were to hesitate at that 42,350,000-mile mark while you travelled from here to there on an airplane doing 200 miles an hour, he would have to wait 24 1/2 years for you to arrive.

Medium Visits Mars

Only one earthling ever thought seriously of traveling to Mars. Captain Claude Collins planned to ride a sky-rocket thither. But he couldn't get a rocket large enough.

However, a famous French medium, Mlle. Helene Smith, says she projected her soul to Mars. There she saw:

"Houses without chimneys, or wheels emitting sparks as they glided by, houses with fountains on the roofs, a cradle having for curtains an angel made of iron with outstretched wings."

She also brought back the latest fashion notes from the Martians.

"The people," she said, "were much like the inhabitants of the earth, save that both sexes wore the same clothing—trousers, long coats and long blouses drawn tight about the waist and decorated with various designs."

Their language had a pleasant intonation, according to the mademoiselle. Four words that she remembered when she came down to earth were:

Metche, meaning Mr.
Metache meaning Mrs.
Metaganiche meaning Miss
Metache meaning four

But H. G. Wells evidently didn't think much of the psychic's description. In his "War of the Worlds," he said that the Martians resembled cutlets with round, gray bodies and sets of faces.

Edmund Perrier, a Parisian scientist, constructed the most detailed picture of the inhabitants of our nearest planetary neighbor.

"Martians are not a crime," he said, "and in this case contradiction is drawn out."

The Martian, according to him, bore some resemblance to man, but he had tremendous ears, a large chest and thin legs, with scarcely any neck at all.

In America the greatest exponent of the theory that Mars is inhabited was the late Professor Percival Lowell, director of the Harvard observatory at Flagstaff, Ariz.

"The Martian folk," he wrote, "are possessed of inventions of which we have never dreamed. With in the microphone and kitescope are things of the bygone past, preserved with veneration in museums as relics of the clumsy contrivances of the summer childhood of the race."

But other scientists disagree. They think there is nothing but very little water and a thin layer of air on the planet.

"There has been absolutely no determination of life on Mars," says Dr. C. S. Brannin of Columbia University. But Professor William H. Pickering of Harvard says that the weather there is fine—

Especially during the summer.

FORD NEARS OUTPUT OF 5,000 A DAY

Dealers Call for 194,750 Cars, Trucks and Tractors for June

Ford dealers in the United States have asked for a total of 194,750 Ford Cars, Trucks and Tractors to meet their June requirement, says a statement issued by the Ford Motor Company, Detroit, Michigan.

As a result, the estimated output for June has been boosted to 140,000, which is an increase of 10,000 over the month of May and, of course, will set up a new high record in spite of the fact that the May output shows a substantial increase over the previous highest month.

Ford sales have been constantly increasing ever since the first of the year, the demand growing during the past two months faster than it has been possible to increase production.

Monday, May 16th, brought forth a new record of cars built for one day, the figures reaching 4878 at the close of the day's work. This was an increase of 16 over May 15th, when the previous high mark was established.

On May 18th, the six millionth Ford motor was assembled. Number five million came off the line May 23th, 1921.

Ford officials state that every attempt is being made to build a sufficient number of cars and trucks to fill the retail requirements of their 8,000 dealers.

If you want to purchase a Ford Car, we will be glad to take your order and promise delivery in two or three weeks. Phone or write and our salesman will be glad to call and show you the "Improved" Ford Car.
